

STELLA OF HILLTOP

adult halfling
chaotic neutral
Level 5 rogue; scout

Pronouns: she/her
Occupations: Merchant
Armor Class 14
Hit Points 32 (TODO Hitdice)
Speed 25.

STR	DEX	CON	INT	WIS
9 (0)	14 (+2)	14 (+2)	16 (+3)	15 (+3)

CHA

13 (+2)

Saving Throws
TODO Saving Throws
Skills
Persuasion; Stealth; Sleight of Hand
Proficiencies TODO
Damage Immunities
TODO Damage Immunities
Condition Immunities
TODO Condition Immunities
Senses TODO Senses
Languages
Orcish Goblin Common ,
Adjectives suspecting ,

Special Abilities
Special Equipment

Combat Tactics

Stella is calculated about her tactics because of her lung condition and how it limits her endurance

Actions

Dagger

Factions

ROLEPLAYING

Introduction

Recommended fence for acquired goods; Rebel faction may recommend her place as hideout

Appearance

Waif-like

Expressions

Cell3

Expressions

"We shall replace the Queen with a figurehead of those who walk on their hands and their boots on the ground!"; "I will bring the best goods to the people so they can rise".

Mannerisms

Scratches her head in thought during transactions. Breathes very noisily, almost laboriously as though she has a lung condition.

Motivations

Residual income. Freeing a township or city from tyrannical rule. Keeping a secure hideout for rebels and antagonists.

Passions

Love and belonging (i.e., keeping a warm home or safe space for others with good grub and fine linens). Toppling dictators.

Secrets

Stella operates as a lieutenant for a local rebel faction

	Persuasion, Stealth, Strength, Hand
Proficiencies
Damage Immunities	TODO Damage Immunities
Condition Immunities	TODO Condition Immunities
Senses	TODO Senses
Languages	Orcish Goblin Common
Adjectives	suspecting
Special Abilities
Special Equipment
Combat Tactics
	Stella is calculated about tactics because of her lung condition and how it limits endurance
Actions
	Dagger
Factions

Waif-like

Expressions

"We shall replace the Queen with a figurehead of those with boots on the ground!"; "I will bring the best goods to the people so they can rise".

Mannerisms

Scratches her head in thought during transactions. Breathes very noisily, almost laboriously as though she has a lung condition.

Motivations

Residual income. Freeing township or city from tyranny. Keeping a secure hideout for rebels and antagonists.

Passions

Love and belonging (i.e., keeping a warm home, safe space for others with good grub and fine linens). Toppling dictators.

Secrets

Stella operates as a lieutenant for a local rebel faction

BACKGROUND STORY

 Hilltop [Village; Town] is a quiet halfling town located on a well-used trade route. This has conditioned the population to become diverse in their skills and relatively wealthy overall - compared to other halfling settlements. With all the coming and going of people and voluminous exchange of coins, goods, and services, people can get lost. When people get lost nobody comes looking for you, well, then what do you do? A lecherous and ornery halfling grain and feed merchant from nearby economic centre of Invasaad [Major City] was traveling through Hilltop with "best employees", his three young daughters. The girls would head the sacks of grain and feed on off the cart or sometimes would be responsible for interacting with immediate buyers. In one transaction, the feed had been hauled onto the buyer's cart whilst Stella - the youngest of 3 sisters - was bargaining for the first time with a crotchety old woman who couldn't afford to feed her goats. "I'll give ya two silver, nothin more! My husband has passed and we 'ave no children. I'm left to me own devices! 'Ave pity on an old lad Remembering how her father would deal abusively with her sisters whenever they returned with less than he expected, Stella continued to bargain. In the meanwhile, her father, who had grown tired of feeding a third child and who had resigned himself to cutting down the weakest buffalo, had carried on in the cart out of town. Stella continued to barter, none the wiser, until the argumentative customer wouldn't budge. She looked back for her father's approval and saw no cart, no father, no sisters. Stella ended the barter, panicked. She raced around town thinking that her father had other dealings. He was nowhere to be found. Young Stella wept in the square.Eventually that evening a kind elderly halfling woman approached the weeping figure. She comforted her. Told her there were bigger problems. Bigger problems that needed solutions. The kind elderly halfling lady told Stella, "you're from where you choose to be from. You can be Stella of Hilltop". The name stuck and Stella quickly became a surrogate child to the people of Hilltop. Her father never did return.

PERSONALITY

Hilltop [Village; Town] is a quiet halfling town located on a well-used trade route. This has conditioned the population to become diverse in their skills and relatively wealthy overall compared to other halfling settlements. With all the coming and going of people and voluminous exchange of coins, goods, and services, people can get lost. When people get lost, nobody comes looking for you, well, then what do you do? A lecherous and ornery halfling grain and feed merchant from nearby economic centre of Invasaad [Major City] was traveling through Hilltop with "best employees", his three young daughters. The girls would head the sacks of grain and feed on off the cart or sometimes would be responsible for interacting with immediate buyers. In one transaction, the feed had been hauled onto the buyer's cart whilst Stella - the youngest of 3 sisters - was bargaining for the first time with a crotchety old woman who couldn't afford to feed her goats. "I'll give you two silver, nothin' more! My husband has passed and we 'ave no children. I'm left to me own devices! 'Ave pity on an old lady!Remembering how her father would deal abusively with her sisters whenever they returned with less than he expected, Stella continued to bargain. In the meanwhile, her father, who had grown tired of feeding a third child and who had resigned himself to cutting down the weakest buffalo, had carried on in the cart out of town. Stella continued to barter, none the wiser, until the argumentative customer wouldn't budge. She looked back for her father's approval and saw no cart, no father, no sisters. Stella ended the barter, panicked. She raced around town thinking that her father had other dealings. He was nowhere to be found. Young Stella wept in the square.Eventually that evening a kind elderly halfling woman approached the weeping figure. She comforted her. Told her there were bigger problems. Bigger problems that needed solutions. The kind elderly halfling lady told Stella, "you're from where you choose to be from. You can be Stella of Hilltop". The name stuck and Stella quickly became a surrogate child to the people of Hilltop. Her father never did return.