

CAPTAIN WHEELER

young dragonborn (gold)
neutral
Level 5 civilian

Pronouns: he/him
Occupations:
Sailor; Slaver; Performer
Armor Class 11
Hit Points 45 (TODO Hitdice)
Speed 30.

STR	DEX	CON	INT	WIS
13 (+2)	13 (+2)	12 (+1)	8 (-1)	12 (+1)

CHA

11
(+1)

Saving Throws
TODO Saving Throws
Skills
Performance; Persuasion;
Deception
Proficiencies TODO
Damage Immunities
TODO Damage Immunities
Condition Immunities
TODO Condition Immunities
Senses TODO Senses
Languages
Common Draconic Elvish ,
Adjectives Bold ,

Special Abilities

- Bardic Inspiration | Fire Breathing Weapon

Special Equipment

- Beautiful Doss lute
- fashioned from olivewood with a neck of scented rosewood
- inlaid with ivory.

Combat Tactics

Wheeler will always try to beat combatants to the punch, open with a flailing solo to heat metal on their weapons or something equally problematic thereafter turning to his breath weapon and longsword.

Actions

Longsword

Factions

CAPTAIN
WHEELER

*young dragonborn (gender not specified)
neutral
Level 5 civilian*

Pronouns: he/him
Occupations: Sailor; Slaver; Performer
Armor Class 11
Hit Points 45 (TODO H)
Speed 30.

2500 x 3235
↔ ↕

Image Dummy

ROLEPLAYING

Introduction

Captain Wheeler will offer to sail a party to a distant land. He may be encountered during a slave trade or some other trade of foreign goods.

Appearance

2500 x 3235
Image Dummy

STR DEX CON INT WIS
13	13	12	8	12
(+2)	(+2)	(+1)	(-1)	(+1)
CHA
11
(+1)
ROLEPLAYING
Introduction
Captain Wheeler will offer to sail a party to a distant land. He may be encountered during a slave trade or some other trade of foreign goods.
Appearance
A tall and flamboyantly dressed golden Dragonborn. His shining gold scales are well kept and freckled with dark red umber. He carries a beautiful Doss Lute with flourishing vigor as if he wants all to see his prize posession.
Expressions
"Ever been trapped in a storm at sea? Your personal problems disappear into the foam of the waves"; "Slaving is slaving. Aren't we all slaves to something?"; "Everyone has a price. Just some are aware of it"; "Not my problem"
Mannerisms
Wheeler is almost constantly swaying, as though some shanty is playing in his head. He often bursts into rousing shanties while adventuring or even just browsing a market place. This is especially likely when the ale is flowing.
Motivations
He isn't dismayed by slaving, per se, but instead hopes to 'refine' the trade by only including particular races or economic positions. Does he prefer dwarves? The poor? What do the clientele think are the most worthy? Wheeler just goes with it.
Passions
Sailing; Music, shanties in particular;
Secrets
Saving Throws
TODO Saving Throws
Skills
Performance; Persuasion; Deception
Proficiencies
Damage Immunities
TODO Damage Immunities
Condition Immunities
TODO Condition Immunities
Senses
TODO Senses
Languages
Common Draconic Elvish
Adjectives
Bold ,
Special Abilities
<ul style="list-style-type: none">Bardic Inspiration Breath Weapon
Special Equipment
<ul style="list-style-type: none">Beautiful Doss lutefashioned from olive with a neck of scenic rosewoodinlaid with ivory.
Combat Tactics
Wheeler will always try to combatants to the punch with a flailing solo to metal on their weapon something equally problem thereafter turning to his weapon and longsword.
Actions
Longsword
Factions

Appearance
A tall and flamboyantly dressed golden Dragonborn. His shining gold scales are well kept and freckled with dark red umber. He carries a beautiful Doss Lute with flourishing vigor as if he wants all to see his prize posession.
Expressions
"Ever been trapped in a storm at sea? Your personal problems disappear into the foam of the waves"; "Slaving is slaving. Aren't we all slaves to something?"; "Everyone has a price. Just some are aware of it"; "Not my problem"
Mannerisms
Wheeler is almost constantly swaying, as though some shanty is playing in his head. He often bursts into rousing shanties while adventuring or even just browsing a market place. This is especially likely when the ale is flowing.
Motivations
He isn't dismayed by slaving, per se, but instead hopes to 'refine' the trade by only including particular races or economic positions. Does he prefer dwarves? The poor? What do the clientele think are the most worthy? Wheeler just goes with it.
Passions
Sailing; Music, shanties in particular;
Secrets

BACKGROUND STORY

A largely forgotten child of a wealthy Dragonborn family nearly obliterated by discriminating Elven and Human armies, Captain Wheeler became something of a man-whore chasing females for personal validation. In these seedy social circles, he connected with the Violet Conch, a high-society slaver group who traded in peoples of any race or social class so long as it was profitable. Realizing his opportunity at wealth (and not caring that others would suffer) Captain Wheeler trained with the Violet Conch, learning the 'ropes' of sailing and trading peoples as goods. The process largely wore down his moral compass.

Regardless of these heavy experiences, Wheeler (renamed by his sailmates - his original name only known to him at this point) is well known as the 'best who inspires' or the 'spirit of the wandering sailor' because of his profound fecundity with respect to sea-shanties. Those shanties have become even more renowned because of their magical effects, often saving sailors and their ships in crisis.

PERSONALITY

A largely forgotten child of a wealthy Dragonborn family nearly obliterated by discriminating Elven and Human armies, Captain Wheeler became something of a man-whore chasing females for personal validation. In these seedy social circles, he connected with the Violet Conch, a high-society slaver group who traded in peoples of any race or social class so long as it was profitable. Realizing his opportunity at wealth (and not caring that others would suffer) Captain Wheeler trained with the Violet Conch, learning the 'ropes' of sailing and trading peoples as goods. The process largely wore down his moral compass.

Regardless of these heavy experiences, Wheeler (renamed by his sailmates - his original name only known to him at this point) is well known as the 'beard who inspires' or the 'spirit of the wandering sailor' because of his profound fecundity with respect to sea-shanties. Those shanties have become even more renowned because of their magical effect, often saving sailors and their ships in crisis.