Secrets

He was exiled from the Feywild for pursuing technology

Background Story

Ferdinand Von Lefthoff knows that flying is the best, safest and fastest way to travel. Having his own wings, he knows this from experience. As such, he has devoted his life to creating reliable commercial air transport. Realizing both the potential for financial gain and the advancement of science and society, Oswald Vardklemp invited Ferdinand to join the Collegium Imginata, offering him the resources to develop his airship. He grew up in the Feywild, but was exiled due to his rabid pusuit of science and technology. Ferdinand has gone through several iterations and designs for airship, but has yet to get a functioning prototype working that is capable of transporting more than a couple people at a time. He firmly believes hes close to a brektrhough though.
