Background Story

Rosie 198 is the 198th upgrade of the Robotic Oswald Shield Interceptor Engine. It is a large, magic, steam and hydrolic powered construct made of gleaming steel and bronze. It is bipedaled with broad shoulders and a small bronze humanoid head. Two long arms, one ends in a huge steel prehensile hand and the other ends in a massive gatling cannon similar to the one it's master has, but much much bigger. Rosie 198 is an imposing force and does it's job well.
