PERSONALITY

Brushing his dreadlocks from his eyes, Albrecht stares down the elves approaching his work site. "Oy, git yer dirty hands off this site! Yer gonna taint the beauty of my work!" He snarls, spitting in their direction.

The two elves remain silent, each other about the rarity they see nailing shingles to the roof of the new tavern. A half-orc? A dwarf? They cannot be certain. His muscular body and scars tell the story of a man who is not civilized, per se. A man who would unleash rage upon them. The elves depart.

The progeny of a Dwarven slave woman who answered to Orcish slavers in a barbaric tribe, Albrecht had no true connection to family, as one might know, except to hate others and unleash rage upon those who challenge him.

Tired of the poverty and sloppy indulgences of his tribe, Albrecht sought greater wealth and power. He followed a trading caravan he saw passing the distance of the plains, offering to help them with any repairs or services they might need. He continued on with the 'hired-hand' type business upon arriving in the town of Meersburg Downs, a small sailing port and bustling sea-side community. Here he grew his talents, but his hatred for other races as the village was frequented by many types of people carousing, drinking, fighting, and all-around ne'er-do-wells. Now, Albrecht focuses on having his 'stamp' on as many buildings, ships, wagons and so forth, as he possibly can. He puts his anger and hatred into his work knowing that unleashing his rage would not only be dangerous for others, but more certainly for himself.
