Corrora prefers to use his arsenal of ranged attack spells whenever possible. As a warcaster, he is able to carry his shield and either a war hammer or longsword to defend himself from enemies who get too close | Corrora will be the first to rush to the aid of fallen allies. He'll drag them to safety and use his healing spells to save them

The son of a human ambassador to the High-Elves could not be an Elven diplomat. He took to it all as a challenge for a man. Intelligent and hardworking, he excelled in every field and understood the needs of the local population. He was loved by the children of the city and his home; he was a true Baraithton.
