BACKGROUND STORY

Praxius came into the world bred to a champion, like his father and grandfather. For a time, he was. Though age began to show its mark and he found he just couldn't adventure like he used to. He wandered for a while after trying to find a new purpose, until he came across an abandoned bar within the city. He remembered his earlier days of how sometimes he just wanted to stop a bar that didn't have constant fights, underworld presence at every turn. He spent the last of the gold he had repairing it and establishing contracts. Through the deals he made (and broke) he slowly learnt the tools of the trade of haggling, and now Praxys, thriving bar in the city. Though Prax does lament a desire to adventure again, especially after seeing Lucia grow up into a fine businesswoman herself.
