Appearance

White-haired and wizened, though still very gaunt and regal. Well-dressed and clean

Expressions

"I'm sorry, we don't carry dirty books here", "We may have some tomes to your liking, but they're definitely not cheap"

Mannerisms

Slow and feeble, walks with a staff

Motivations

He loves books and the pursuit of knowledge

Passions

Books and writing

Secrets

He may have various magical tomes and scrolls locked in his backroom safe at any given time

Background

Llewellyn is a very old man, even by elf standards. He's spent much of his life travelling around the realms collecting books and studying lore. As he grew too old for the life of an adventurer, he settled in the city and opened a store to display and pass on his huge collection.

He is always interested in bringing in new lore and historical volumes, and can become distracted and talk at lengths about history, lore and arcana. To him, knowledge is its own reward.

During his travels he has collected a number of magical tomes and scrolls which he keeps under lock and key at the shop. A player would have to heavily impress him to sell one of them though, and even then, they would be very expensive.
