	Secrets

Fatoumata opened her eyes, the fountain of black goo was gone, the hole remained. She looked around quickly to see if anyone spellcaster or demon, was responsible for this encounter, she saw nothing but the plains between her village and lumber mills.

"Look to your hands, my child. My daughter," a voice rang in her head.

She looked down at her hands. Black goo was covering both but quickly evaporated once her gaze found its target. She was left with an incredible sight. A second opposable thumb on each hand.

Wondering if she'd imagined the event, she wandered back to the village to show her family. Suspiciously, her father would dodge any questions about the events and her mother would quiet her. Upon doing her own limited research, she discovered that her family has indeed had encounters with various powerful entities in the past and now wonders if one of these entities responsible for her 'difference'.

As the years passed, Fatoumata became something of both a celebrity and a pariah. People of town and surrounding Dwarven empire were both fascinated and terrified of her 'difference'. She learned to adapt to this through disguise; carrying party masks with her and wearing beautiful gloves that distract from the 'difference' and draw peoples' attention to her ornate appearance instead.
