Bullshit,

thought, trudging back to perform his duties in the kitchen. If only I could have that life. I'd give anything.

That night after a long shift stewing meats and cleaning surfaces, Salanar had a vision in his sleep of a decayed ancient elf in regal robes and an ancient chain, its face sunken with black opal eyes staring straight at Salanar's bone marrow.

Quiet your pleas for more, because I'll give you all you wish for...

Petrified and unable to wake, Salanar sunk deeper into the dream.

You only need to pledge your very being to me through life and into death.

The figure made a broad gesture to one side and Salanar's mind was filled with an infinite number of beautiful works of art pouring over one another again and again, and again and again, and his heart filled with the hope to become the artist he always wanted. His very bones agreed to Kiaransale's terms.

When he awoke the next morning, Salanar was filled with such confidence and inspiration that he began demanding that others call him 'Primo'. He proceeded to fill the taverns, markets, and streets with his labor and produce volumes of art.

Little did he expect, however, that he became haunted by undeath. Ghosts, wraiths, and more, peered around corners, over window sills, and over his bed while he sleeps.
